Reception Tendered Supreme Trustee Quinn by the C. K. of A.

Visitor Tells of the Splendid Condition of Order at Present.

Bountiful Dinner Served the Distinguished Guest by Mrs. Hunold.

GREAT DAY FOR THE KNIGHTS

Supreme Trustee Michael Quinn, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was the guest of honor here Sunday at a reception and mass meeting of the Catholic Knights of America of Louisville, Jeffersonville and New Albany. Later in the afternoon he was the principal guest of honor at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hunold at their home on Sixth street. Herbert Croghan, Supreme Vice President of the C. K. of A., was to have accompanied Mr. Quinn to Louisville, but was called home on account of an accident to his leg. Croghan and Quinn attended a meeting of the Supreme Trustees at St. Louis last week, and intended to come to Louisville together to give an account of their stewardship. As it was, the absence of Mr. Croghan was regretted, but Mr. Quinn and the other speakers made up for it.

Mr. Quinn arrived in Louisville early Sunday morning and was escorted to St. Mary's church, where he attended mass. Those who met him at the train were Col. Joseph P. McGinn, William T. Meehan, and William M. Higgins. After mass the visitor had breakfast at the residence of Col. McGinn, 515 West Chestnut street. From there he went to the Louisville Hotel, where many of the Central Committee met him at 2 o'clock the reception committee reassembled and with the two Uniform Companies escorted Mr. Quinn to St. Mary's Hall, Eighth and Grayson streets. On arriving at the hall then crowded with 400 of the 500 members who occupied by the flower of the order in the three Falls Cities, Jeffersonville and New Albany being particularly well represented. The Uniform Knights marched up the aisle, opened ranks and then crossed over while Mr. Quinn and his personal escort passed underneath to the platform. Capt. Oscar Meier and Tony Montedonico headed their respective companies.

William M. Higgins, editor of the Kentucky Irish American, ex-Chairman of the Entertainment Committee, presided and introduced the Rev. Father P. M. J. Rock, who opened the meeting with prayer and delivered the first address. He said that he felt that the greatest pleasure in his life was to be a Catholic Knight. He said the Knights were caring for their homes and families, and as such were following in the footsteps of the apostles. Membership in the order, said Father Rock, was both of material and spiritual benefit. Major Gen. Michael Reichert, Commander-in-Chief of the Uniform Rank, was next called upon. He said the request took him by surprise, but that he always felt impelled to lift his voice in behalf of the order. He said the number of 10,000 men in Kentucky, he said, and recounted the opportunities for advancement and safeguarding the family. He dwelt at length on the military department and the pleasures afforded thereby.

Supreme Trustee Quinn was next introduced and was very happy in his remarks. He caught his audience at the outset and was listened to with attention throughout. He said he had found the order in the best possible condition during the deliberations of the Supreme Trustees last week. In fact it was better fixed financially now than ever in its history. So confident was he in the perpetuity of the Catholic Knights that six members of his family had become members through his influence. Getting down to statistics, Mr. Quinn said that the mortality reserve fund now amounted to $1,500,000. The time is coming, he said, when the number of assessments would be decreased. This would be made possible by the retarding scheme which went into effect about three years ago. The order has passed through a crisis, but is now rated as A1 in the world of American fraternal insurance societies. As an evidence that the order was enjoying a degree of prosperity, the Supreme Trustees had been enabled to invest an additional $100,000 in bonds paying more than 4 per cent., which makes an aggregate investment in gilt-edged Government, State and municipal bonds of $750,000. Mr. Quinn said he was proud of his membership in the order, and now that he had become an old man he was glad that he had contributed to the $10,000,000 that had already been distributed to the widows and orphans by the Catholic Knights of America. He said the order would continue the premiums and payment of medical examiners' fees until March 1. The order will now enter new fields and organize new branches, which will benefit the present membership by reducing the number of assessments. The condition of the order is such now that it would not have to gain one new member, and yet when the last man died his $2,000 would be there for him. Some of Mr. Quinn's strong points were brought out in response to queries propounded by P. J. Dowling and Thomas Keenan.

Supreme Delegate Harry Veene-man, of Louisville, followed Mr. Quinn, and predicted splendid results from the work now being undertaken. He urged all to get busy and hustle, and expressed the hope that Kentucky would lead all the States in membership before the next national convention. State Secretary Massan said that the State officers would do their full duty in booming the Knights, and promised that all would soon hear from the State Board, and complimented the Jeffersonville and New Albany branches for their splendid showing at the mass meeting. Col. Joseph P. McGinn, who was one of the Supreme Trustees when the retarding plan was adopted, was the next speaker. He expressed his pleasure at hearing the good news brought by Supreme Trustee Quinn and said it made him feel proud of his own record in the stormy times now passed by. Letters of regret were read from Supreme Delegate Thomas Gleason, of Covington; Dr. Averdick, of the same city, and State Treasurer Sylvester Bunker of New Haven, each of whom was unavoidably detained at home. This brought the meeting to a close.

Many of the assembled Knights were introduced to Mr. Quinn personally, after which he and nearly all the delegates to the Central Committee went to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hunold, on Sixth street, where Mrs. Hunold had prepared an elaborate dinner for Mr. Quinn and his friends. Mrs. Hunold was assisted in receiving by Messrs. Henry Gotthardt and George Frey, and her daughters, Misses Marie and Minnie Hunold. After light refreshments and cigars, the Misses Hunold played selections on the violin and piano. Vocal solos were rendered by Henry Bosquet, Capt. John A. Murphy, of Jeffersonville; Capt. Gus Kane, and a duet by Harry Veene-man and William T. Meehan, all the assembled company joining in the chorus.

Mrs. Hunold led her guests to the dining room, where a feast fit for Lucullus had been spread. Of course Mr. Quinn was the guest of honor and seated at the tables were Major Gen. Michael Reichert, Charles Hill, Capt. Gus Kane, William T. Meehan, Henry Bosquet, Adam Gotthardt, George Frey, Henry Gotthardt, Louis B. Glass, John Scholda, Charles Falk, William M. Higgins, Barney Coll and Capt. John A. Murphy, of Jeffersonville; Eugene McCarthy, Col. Joseph P. McGinn, Charles J. Desse and Harry A. Veene-man. The feast continued for an hour and a half, and all enjoyed the good things set before them and were loud in their praise of Mrs. Hunold as a hostess.

Mr. Quinn spent a short time at the residence of Col. McGinn, and was then taken to his train and left for Brooklyn. Before he left he expressed his pleasure at his cordial reception in Louisville and at the splendid condition of the order in Kentucky.

EXAGGERATED.

Monsignor Falconio Makes Plain Misconstrued Points.

Monsignor Falconio, the Papal Delegate, in a recent interview cleared up a few points in the new regulations of the church in America, since it passed out of a missionary province. He said in part:

"Though placing the United States on equal footing with the old countries as one thoroughly organized and Catholic gives it great dignity and influence in a theoretical way, practically the transfer will mean no changes for some. The American church will be under the rulings of the canon law, but it will take time to understand the tenets and get things in running order."

"For instance, though the status of the parish priest will be elevated, this change must be worked out according to circumstances and as various exigencies arise."

Many of the alleged changes contained in the new Papal constitution have been exaggerated. I saw stated that hereafter, according to the Vatican decree, seminarians should be thirty-one years of age before being ordained. There is not one word in the constitution about the ordination of priests, and the rule which has held for centuries in this and other countries will continue to be enforced—that is, the age twenty-four is the canonical for ordination. Some special rulings have been recently laid down by the Holy See for seminarians of Italy, but they do not apply here."

SOCIAL SESSION

Followed Initiation of Fine Class by Division 2, A. O. H.

Division 2, A. O. H., met Friday night of last week, and after initiating a class of eight candidates held an elaborate social session. President Con J. Ford presided and saw that all present enjoyed themselves. None was reported on the sick list. Addresses were made by Judge Patrick T. Sullivan, of Division 3; John P. Hellen, of Division 4, and others. Eulogies of deceased members of Division 2 were read, and the evening and beautiful tributes were paid to the memory of John J. Barrett, John Hennessy and Owen Keiran, each of whom occupied positions of trust in the division for years prior to their death.

An oyster supper brought the meeting to a close and the division will have no more social functions until after Advent.

ADVENT

Begins Tomorrow and Catholics Prepare For Birth of Saviour.

Date of Earliest Observance Lost in the Twilight of History.

Strict Observance of the Season Varies in Different Countries.

BEAUTIFUL LESSONS IN LITURGY

The season of Advent will begin tomorrow, and it is a time when our holy mother church expects her children to practice fasting, meditation, penance and prayer, so that they may be prepared for the great feast of Christmas, the anniversary of the birth of our Lord and Saviour. By pious practices the church and her ministers seek to prepare her devout children for the spiritual advent when the second person of the Blessed Trinity shall come again to judge mankind.

Although it is impossible to fix the earliest year in which the holy season of Advent was first observed, there are historical documents extant which show that a canon of a Council at Saragossa in 380 A. D. forbade the faithful to be absent from the church services during the three weeks that preceded Christmas. In the fifth century Advent seems to have been assimilated to Lent, and kept as a time of abstinence and fasting for forty days or longer. In the Sacramentary of Pope Gregory the Great there are masses for five Sundays in Advent, but about the ninth century they were reduced to four, and they have remained ever since. Guenger's Liturgical year gives the above history of the observance and the author says:

"We may therefore consider the present discipline of the observance of Advent as having lasted a thousand years, at least so far as the Church of Rome is concerned."

With regard to fasting and abstinence during Advent, the practice has always varied in different parts of the church. Strictness has been observed, after which would come a period of relaxation, followed by a return to strictness. The Western days and Fridays in Advent are observed in England and Ireland as days of abstinence; in the United States only the Fridays are observed, and in France and other continental countries the ancient discipline of abstinence has practically died out except among religious communities.

There is a marvelous beauty in the offices and rites of the church during this season. The lessons, generally taken from the prophecies of Isaiah, remind us how the desire and expectations, not of Israel only but of all nations, carried forward the thoughts of mankind before the time of Jesus Christ to a Redeemer one day to be revealed. The lessons, also strike the note of preparation, watchfulness, compunction and hope. In the gospels of this season we hear of the terrors of the last judgment, that second advent which those who despise the first will not escape; of the witness borne by John the Precursor, and of the mighty works by which the Saviour's life supplied a solid foundation and justification for that witness.

At vespers the seven greater antiphons are a noteworthy feature of the liturgical year. The purple hue of penance is the only color used in Advent, except on the feasts of saints. Advent is the beginning of the ecclesiastical year, and this year it is for the beginning of a novena in preparation for the feast of the Immaculate Conception. On the first Sunday in Advent, too, the Forty Hours' prayer always begins at the Cathedral of the Assumption, the mother church of the diocese.

SOLENN TRIDUUM

In Honor of the Ursuline Sisters' Fiftieth Year.

Elaborately but at the same time quietly and unostentatiously did the Ursuline Sisters of the Immaculate Conception and Sacred Heart Academies celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the foundation of their order in America. The mother house is at 804 East Chestnut street, and there the first services of the triduum were held on Tuesday. The Right Rev. Bishop McCloskey was present and made a congratulatory address. On the afternoon of the same day the drama, "St. Angela," was performed at St. Martin's school hall, on Gray street, near Shelby. Incidental to the story of the play a number of vocal and instrumental selections were interpreted, and the whole showed the perfect training given by the Ursulines to their pupils.

The great day of the triduum was Wednesday, when 1,100 children from the eighteen parochial schools taught by the Ursuline nuns assembled in St. Martin's church, Shelby street, near Gray, to attend the jubilee mass celebrated by the Rev. Father Ohle, assisted by the Rev. Father Constantine, O. F. M., as deacon, and Rev. Father Assent as subdeacon. The Right Rev. Bishop McCloskey occupied a throne in the sanctuary and was attended by the Rev. Fathers Westernman and Greulich, O. M. C., as deacons of honor. Prior to the beginning of mass a hundred little girls dressed in white trimmed with gold, and almost as many boys tastefully attired emerged from the school hall and proceeded through Gray street to Shelby, and thence into the church. The boys bore banners of St. Ursula and St. Angela and the procession made a pretty picture.

After the solemn Levitical mass the Rev. Father John J. Fitzgerald, pastor of St. Leo's church, Highland Park, presided, an eloquent spokesman on "Christian Education." Even though a sermon to children his language was eloquent, even if simple, and the speaker did not fail to extol the good work done by the Ursulines. Bishop McCloskey also addressed the children briefly and gave them his episcopal blessing. Then as one voice the 1,100 children sang the hymn to St. Angela. The music was inspiring and grand.

On Thursday the triduum closed with a solemn mass of requiem for the repose of the souls of the members of the community. This closed the triduum, and too much credit can not be given to Sister Victoria, Mother Superior of the Ursulines, whose able mind planned the jubilee exercises.

RECENT DEATHS.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Nelligan have the sympathy of their many friends in their grief over the death of their little daughter, Margaret E. Heslin, who was in her fifth year. The little fellow died on Monday afternoon, and the funeral took place from the family residence, 1033 Portland avenue, Wednesday morning.

John Connelly, an engineer in the employ of the Street Repair Department, died very suddenly while at work at Thirty-fourth street and Ridd avenue Wednesday afternoon. The remains were removed to the home of his father-in-law, Patrick Parley, 1241 Portland avenue. The funeral took place from St. Patrick's church yesterday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Heslin have the sympathy of many friends in their grief over the death of their little daughter, Margaret E. Heslin, who passed away on Thursday of last week, and whose funeral took place from St. Louis Bertrand church Saturday morning. The deceased was ten years old and was a general favorite in the community.

Mrs. Mary Rogers, fifty-five years old, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Murt Gallagher, 1430 West Market street, Tuesday evening. Her husband, John Rogers, two sons, John Rogers, Jr., and Thomas Rogers, and three daughters survive. Mrs. Rogers was admitted by one who knew her, and her funeral, which took place from St. Patrick's church, was largely attended.

Mrs. Catherine Dolan, forty-seven years old, died at the family residence, 448 East Main street, Monday night. She was the wife of John Dolan, Superintendent of the Construction Department of the Louisville Water Company, and with nine children survive her. The deceased was a devout Catholic and was well beloved by a large number of acquaintances. The funeral took place from St. Michael's church Wednesday morning.

Michael Welsh died at Sts. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital as the result of dropsy on Wednesday morning. He had been ill several weeks and his death was not unexpected. The funeral took place from St. Michael's church Sunday morning. The deceased was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Welsh, and a head plumber, and Dr. Thomas Welsh, the dentist. He was fifty years of age.

Mrs. Barbara Gipperich, an old and esteemed member of St. Martin's congregation, died at the family residence, 628 East Madison street, at 12:45 o'clock last Saturday afternoon. She was seventy-nine years old, and had spent the greater part of her life in this city. Two sons and three daughters survive her. The funeral was held at St. Martin's church Monday morning, when the Rev. Father Ohle celebrated the solemn mass of requiem. Many old friends and acquaintances accompanied the remains to their last resting place in St. Michael's cemetery.

James W. Couchman, a retired business man, and one of the oldest members of the Holy Name congregation, died at his home in Lynnhurst, on the Seventh street car line, early Monday morning. Death resulted from a complication of diseases. The deceased was born in Indiana fifty-four years ago, and came to Louisville at the age of sixteen. For a number of years he was in the employ of the Louisville Railway Company, and then embarked in the grocery business at Fourth and Avery streets. A few years ago he retired. He is survived by his wife, one son, Dr. Harry Couchman, the dentist, and three daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth McGowan, Misses Ida and Anna May Couchman. The funeral took place from Holy Name church Wednesday morning.

HANDSOME NEW CHURCH.

The new Church of St. Francis de Sales at St. Louis was dedicated on Thursday. The spire is the tallest in the Mount City. The top of gilded cross on the spire is 285 feet from the pavement. Bishop Janssen, of Belleville, Ill., officiated at the ceremonies.

BISHOP M'QUAD IMPROVES.

The Right Rev. Bernard J. McQuaid has so far recovered his health that he has been able to return to his episcopal residence in Rochester. He is now making preparations to spend the winter in the milder climate of Georgia, and while there will be the guest of his old friend, Bishop Kiley, of Savannah. The Bishop's return was the occasion for much rejoicing among the Catholics of Rochester.

BAD ACTOR.

One Reformer Who Suffers From Lack of Self-Control at Times.

Mark Gabhart Forgets Sometimes About His Official Duties.

Rough House Started and Riot Alarm Brought the Police.

HOMICIDES PROBABLY AVERTED

County Clerk Mark Gabhart seems to have as great a facility for breaking into unnecessary trouble as he has for breaking into politics. One stunt seems to exceed another in its perilousness, and people wonder what the end will be. His latest escapade occurred during the latter part of last week, terrorized a neighborhood, demoralized the operatives at a big grain elevator and likewise the employees of a big carpenter contractor. That some one was not killed is well nigh a miracle. Yet Mr. Gabhart, has not been arrested. The police know about it; many men witnessed the whole affair, but hitherto it has not appeared in print.

This is the same Mark Gabhart who was elected County Clerk a year ago as one of the moral reformers. He was hardly warm in his office before he figured in the breaking up of two Jefferson street saloons, near the Court House. Both offenses occurred the same day. The matter was squelched; somebody paid the bills. Later on he and two of his deputies went to Haack's saloon, at Twenty-fifth and Market streets, created a disturbance and Gabhart left after one of his Deputy Clerks had been put to sleep with the hardest side of a lemon squeezer. Then he refused to allow Democratic workers to copy the registration until the courts intervened. He thought better of it when he found a jail sentence staring him in the face. On the night of election he refused to allow Democratic workers to enter his office and guard the ballot boxes until he became convinced that he was up against it. The latest offense is more grievous than all. The following story can be supported by affidavits or testimony in the courts should it become necessary. For the present the only need is to tell a brief story of what happened.

This is the way the story is told: Joseph H. Green, a veteran carpenter contractor and a Republican, contributed $50 to Gabhart's campaign fund when he was a candidate for County Clerk. Mr. Green aspired to the office of Mr. Gabhart promised to make of him Building Inspector. One day or night later in the campaign Gabhart approached Mr. Green and wanted to borrow $10 to treat his friends. Mr. Green had only $5.00 in his pockets, but accompanied Gabhart to a saloon on Twelfth street, told who he was, and Gabhart ran credit for $4.40 worth of drinks.

Time rolled on, and John Chambers was appointed Building Inspector. Mr. Green was disgusted. He made official inquiries and discovered that Gabhart had induced a third man for the place. Later still he discovered that Gabhart had not paid the bill at the Twelfth street saloon. He was angry and did not hesitate to say things about the County Clerk. Of course all the talk went back to Gabhart. Mr. Green is engaged in making certain improvements at a large elevator in the southwestern part of the city, and one afternoon during the latter part of last week Gabhart drove up to the elevator and asked for him. He was told that Mr. Green was on one of the higher floors superintending the work of his employees.

"Call him down. I want him to build a house for me," said the County Clerk. None knew Gabhart and Mr. Green was summoned. As soon as Mr. Green appeared Gabhart began to abuse him verbally and finally struck him. Mr. Green is a much older man than Gabhart. Bystanders whose veracity is undoubted interfered. Gabhart jumped into his buggy and left the scene with the remark: "I'm coming back fixed."

Mr. Green returned to his work in the upper part of the elevator. None expected the return of Gabhart, but he came back. Then the grain elevator people and the employees induced Mr. Green to remain upstairs. Gabhart's manner became so threatening that he demoralized the entire force of carpenters and elevator operatives. In his frenzy he said: "I don't give a d—n about the County Clerkship. I am going to be the next Republican Mayor of Louisville." He became so ugly that one of the gentlemen in control of the elevator threatened to take the business into his own hands. A well known Republican, who happened to be on the scene, but who knows how to be cool and conservative, prevented what might have been one or two killings. Meanwhile a riot alarm had been sent in. Gabhart concluded to get away and did just before the patrol wagon drove up. The matter was explained and three blue-coated men remained at the elevator until work ceased for the evening. Mr. Green was escorted home by two plain-clothes men at the end of his day's work.

There has been no arrest; not a line in the daily papers. How long are these reformers to be allowed to run at large?

SEVENTIETH BIRTHDAY.

Philip Eisenmenger, the veteran park manager, celebrated his seventieth birthday.

fortieth birthday on Monday, and during the afternoon seventy-five or more of his friends called to congratulate him and to wish him many happy returns of the day. The host provided a "haasepeffer" lunch and many other good things in the way of solid and liquid refreshments. There was an orchestra on hand and Mr. Eisenmenger waltzed to the air of "Lauterbach" just to show that his seventy years had not made him dizzy. Among those present were James McIlhenny, Nicholas Bosler, M. J. Lebritter, Louis Alsop, Henry Bosquet, Frank Senn, Philip Ackermann, Philip Charley and Angelo Mazzoni, Ed Senn, Casper Hammer, Theodore Menk, Charley Becker, Gus Scheffel, George Bierod, Col. Sebastian Gunther and Louis Eisenmenger. When some one commented on the fact that Mr. McIlhenny was the only Irishman present Mr. Eisenmenger explained that Jim was the only one he knew who could sing tenor to "Hi Leel Hi Lo!" Mr. Eisenmenger has lived on his park grounds, Thirty-fourth and Market streets, for fifty years.

ALL GOOD MEN

Are Those Nominated For Office in Mackin Council.

The previous announcement that Mackin Council was to nominate officers this week brought on an unusually large attendance Tuesday night. President Robert T. Burke presided. One application was received and one new member was elected. The Visiting Committee reported that six members were ill. Grand First Vice President Edward Kelly was given a warm welcome and made a brief address. Eugene J. Cooney was present in behalf of Trinity Council and invited Mackin's members to visit Trinity's bazaar, which is to be held early in the new year.

Before entering upon the nominations President Burke announced that a smoker would be given in connection with the election next Tuesday evening. Many of the members wanted President Burke to stand for re-election as an endorsement of his administration, but he courteously declined on the ground that one term was honor enough, and that there were plenty of other good men fitted for the position in the council. The nominations resulted as follows:

President—Louis J. Kieffer and John T. Kenny.
First Vice President—Frank A. Lananah and Thomas D. Clines.
Second Vice President—John J. Lynn and Samuel L. Robertson.
Recording Secretary—Henry G. Hill and Thomas F. Bachman.
Financial Secretary—Frank G. Adams.

Corresponding Secretary—William F. Burke, Robert G. Osborne and Thomas J. Gilligan.

Treasurer—Dan W. Weber.
Marshal—William F. Schaetzly and Adolphus Andriott.
Inside Sentinel—J. C. F. Bartsch and Tyler M. Charlton.
Outside Sentinel—William D. Andriott.

Executive Committee—Robert T. Burke, William Kerberg, C. J. Walker, James Mullarkey, Lawrence Kinsella, Austin E. Walsh, W. A. Link, J. J. Morrow, Sebastian Hubbuch and Henry Moran.

Medical Examiners—Dr. Michael Casper and Dr. A. R. Bizot.
As will be seen from the foregoing list an excellent set of young men have been nominated, and the election Tuesday night promises to be spirited but friendly.

ELOQUENT PRIEST

Will Conduct Two Weeks' Mission at the Sacred Heart Church.

The Rev. Father A. A. Lambert, of Chicago, a renowned missionary, will open a two weeks' mission at Sacred Heart church, Seventeenth and Broadway, at the late mass at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. The Rev. Father Patrick Walsh and the people of Sacred Heart parish are eager in their anticipation of the good results to be obtained.

The mission will open with a high mass and the initial sermon by Father Lambert. In the evening the exercises will begin at 7:30 o'clock, when vespers will be followed by the recitation of the rosary, a lecture by Father Lambert and benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. During week days the first mass will be celebrated at 5 o'clock and will be followed by a brief instruction. The second mass will be at 8 o'clock, also followed by a short instruction. The rosary will be recited each evening and will be followed by a lecture and benediction. The first week will be for women, the second for men. Visitors from other parishes and non-Catholics will be welcome at all the services.

Father Lambert is well known in Louisville, where he has in past years given missions at the Cathedral and other churches. Three special events will be celebrated while the mission is in progress—the feast of the Immaculate Conception, the consecration of the Sacred Heart church and the anniversary of the death of Father T. J. Dinsey, first pastor of the congregation.

PREPARE IN TIME.

The diocese of Cincinnati will celebrate its centenary thirteen years hence, but the faithful of that city seem to be preparing for it even now. The editor of the Catholic Telegraph writes: "Cincinnati should celebrate her centenary in a Cathedral as splendid as those which her younger sisters of St. Louis and St. Paul are building, and pride in her exalted place in the American church, veneration for her heroic past, and hope of future for her even more glorious, should prompt every child of the archdiocese to pray and labor for this supreme object."

NEW TACTICS

Employed by Irish Leader in Parliament to Secure Redress.

Hon. John E. Redmond Grew Tired Waiting For Liberals to Act.

Will Carry Home Rule Question to the Homes of British Electors.

IT IS BETTER LATE THAN NEVER

Tired of the dilatory tactics of the Liberal party in regard to measures beneficial to Ireland, Hon. John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Parliamentary party, in a determined effort to fight the enemy on her own ground. The editor of the Dundalk Democrat comments on the new movement and says in part:

Mr. Redmond inaugurated at Manchester a series of meetings which are to be held in various centers throughout Great Britain, the object of which is to educate the masses on the other side of the Irish Sea on the home rule question. This is work that was done very effectively in Glasgow to time with the result that Gladstone introduced a home rule measure vastly more sweeping than the present day official Liberals are willing to contemplate. Gladstone knew that he had an educated public opinion behind him, as the result of the splendid work done under Parnell. The present day Liberals feel that home rule has not been made a living issue in politics on the other side of the water, and that the average voter in Great Britain knows little of the subject and cares less.

Mr. Redmond has done well in showing the British workman what the home rule demand is, and why he should call on his Parliamentary representatives to concede it. Those who know the English character say that it is willing to admit just claims which do not conflict with national self-interest. We are not competent to pronounce on such a question; but we think it not a very difficult matter to show the British elector that it is in his own interest as well as that of Ireland that home rule should be granted. Any reasonable man, not prejudiced, will admit that English government in Ireland has been a costly failure—costly to England and damaging to the national prestige. It is easy to show that it is of no advantage to Britain to have at its portals a nation kept in subjection by force and constantly seething with discontent. The contrast of the Transvaal, but recently held in bay the armed might of Britain and today enjoying the blessings of self-government, is too obvious to escape the dullest. And when the average Englishman is enlightened as to what home rule means to Ireland, and to the laborer, we think a vast advance has been made toward legislation of the right kind.

Mr. Redmond made another forcible appeal to the English workman by pointing to the work of the Irish party in supporting legislation favorable to the masses in England. Gratitude may or may not be a strong point in the English character; but there must be some recognition of the work done by such Irish leaders as Michael Davitt, uplifting the workers, and that recognition may well result in a more friendly attitude toward the Irish cause.

The work inaugurated by Mr. Redmond has been too long delayed. If we are to introduce a home rule bill it will not be by merely putting in attendance at Westminster, nor even by organizing Irish opinion, which so far as home rule is concerned is fixed and unchangeable. Pressure must be brought to bear on Parliament, and that pressure should come not from Ireland alone, but from that portion of the British electorate which is passively friendly to Ireland. It must be made actively friendly. Mr. Asquith must be shown that there is a disposition to settle this Irish question, and that he need not even wait for the next general election—in which his party will very probably be beaten—to secure a "mandate" to introduce a home rule bill. If the masses of the English people are willing to give Ireland what they have given their sturdy opponents in South Africa, and thus to end a state of affairs in Ireland which is both discreditable and dangerous to England, and if they show their sentiments clearly to their representatives in Parliament, we may yet see even Mr. Asquith summon up sufficient courage to introduce a home rule bill equal at least to Mr. Gladstone's.

DR. STAFFORD MEMORIAL.

His eminence Cardinal Gibbons presided at St. Patrick's church, Washington, D. C., Wednesday at the impressive memorial services in honor of the late Rev. Father D. J. Stafford. A superb white marble pulpit was dedicated to his memory. It was made of specially selected Vermont marble, octagonal in form and ornamented with carved groups of figures. Rev. Father John Cavanaugh, President of Notre Dame University, preached the memorial sermon.

COMIC OPERA WAR.

"The people must have the news—if you can't get it, make it," is the injunction of the average managing editor of the present day sensational dailies and magazines. Apropos of this, an American yellow journal published a reputed interview between an American correspondent and Emperor William of Germany. It led people to believe that Kaiser Bill was incensed at his Uncle Ned, otherwise Edward VII., King of England and Emperor of India. The German baiters of England were at once aroused and threatened war against Germany. The German Reichstag, jumped on their Emperor with both feet. The Kaiser repudiated the interview and William Bayard Hale, the correspondent with whom the alleged interview took place, repudiated it. That quieted the Germans, but not the Britishers. Now comes Lord Roberts, the British Field Marshal, who sees untold perils from an imaginary invasion of Great Britain.

From an unbiased American viewpoint it looks and sounds like a comic opera war. The Germans are minding their own business and the American people have no quarrel with them. Neither have they with England, but our people are not going to get into an entangling alliance with the latter country because the German baiters of London desire it. The study of English history reveals that her armies have never been successful unless she could get her would-be victims at war with each other.

WOES OF LIBERALS.

Three bills of extraordinary importance are on the programme for deliberation and discussion in the British Parliament this week, but the cables have not informed us of the fate of any one of them. They are, in order of procedure, the licensing bill, the Catholic school bill and the Irish land purchase act. The Irish-Americans are more interested in the latter two than in the former. The defeat of any one of the three, it is believed, will cause a dissolution of Parliament.

While each of these bills involves complicated questions to the people of Great Britain and Ireland, they are still more complicated to the average Irish-American, who knows but little of the intricacies of British Parliamentary workings. Concerning the school bill there are 2,000,000 Irish Catholics in England, Scotland and Wales who want to bring up their children as staunch Catholics. They have built schools of their own and want Catholic teachers. T. P. O'Connor, M. P., says this of the situation:

"The Liberals have no hostility to the Catholic schools and have offered them reasonable terms, but their difficulty in dealing with the question is that their own extremists resent some of their concessions and they find it difficult to give the Catholic schools concessions which they have to refuse to the church of England schools. For instance, no Catholic would have any teacher but a Catholic teacher, and the Liberal administration does not want them to have any other, but it is difficult to propose a law to that effect at the same moment as it is proposed to compel the owners of Church of England schools to appoint teachers independent of religious belief. It is difficult to reconcile the abolition of tests in a Protestant school and the admission of tests in a Catholic school, especially in a Protestant country and by a party which is strongly Protestant. This question has been as great a complication for the Irish as for the Liberal party. The heads of the Catholic church in England, mainly English and Conservative, always have tried to induce the Irish Catholics to vote Tory, while the Irish Nationalists believe it is better for the interests of the schools, as well as for Ireland, that they should vote Liberal."

The Liberal Government, it seems, has practically decided to set aside $5,000,000 for the purchase of lands in the congested districts of Mayo and Galway, but this will cause a storm from the landlords, who do not consider the terms generous enough.

The first named, the licensing bill, is the most important to Britishers. It is a measure to reduce the number of saloons and to restore the monopoly they now enjoy to the State at the end of twenty years. This measure excites interest for two reasons—first on account of the vast financial amounts involved, and secondly, because Englishmen resent any interference with personal and social habits. This latter bill is booked to come before the House of Lords for its second reading this week. Since the cables have brought no advice it is probable that both Liberals and Tories are playing for time with Hon. John E. Redmond and his cohorts watching for the best chance to benefit Ireland.

Up to the present time Dr. McKim, the Episcopal minister, has not accepted the challenge offered by the Rev. Father Russell, of Washington, D. C., relative to Catholic tolerance in Maryland and other questions of a historical nature. Probably the Doctor sees he is up against it.

The Louisville Evening Post said a few days ago that Lieut. Robert J. Foster was leading in its popularity contest for a trip to Cuba. Why not send him to the Philippine Islands? He would know more people there.

If Mr. Carnegie is in earnest about tariff revision, why is he afraid to go before the Congressional Committee?

That historic water filter stubbornly refuses to perform its duty. Whose fault is it?

City or county officials are like other people who seek trouble—they usually find it.

LINCOLN MEMORIAL

Cornerstone to Be Laid in February With Grand Ceremonies.

The cornerstone of the Lincoln memorial building, which is to be erected on the old Lincoln homestead, near Hodgenville in Larue county, this State, will be laid on February 12.

A miniature log cabin, fashioned after the one Lincoln was born in, will be placed on a pedestal on the main floor of the building. Cut into the granite work of the front will be the following:

"This building is erected to mark the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln, sixteenth President of the United States of America, born on the twelfth day of February, in the year 1809."

Underneath this inscription will be Lincoln's immortal words:

"With malice towards none, and charity for all."

The cornerstone will be laid on February 12, 1909, the anniversary of Lincoln's birth. President Roosevelt and other notable persons will be present.

LEHMANN-HECKMANN.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season at St. Vincent de Paul's church was that which united Miss Mary H. Lehmann, the charming daughter of Mrs. Mary Lehmann, of Logan and Kentucky streets, and Joseph Heckmann, the grocer at Twenty-third and Market streets. The wedding was solemnized at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, and was followed by a nuptial high mass, the Rev. Father A. J. Thome officiating. Miss Minnie Schrecker was the maid of honor, and John Heckmann was best man. Leo Schindler and Emil Lehmann were the ushers and Misses Emma and Carrie Lehmann were the flower girls. A breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, and later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Heckmann left for a trip to Chicago and the Northwest. The bride is the sister of the Lehmann brothers, tailors. Both the young people are deservedly popular in German Catholic social circles.

WEDDED FORTY-SIX YEARS.

Forty-six years of wedded bliss are more than fall to the ordinary couple, so that when it was announced that Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hildebrand's forty-sixth nuptial anniversary would take place on Tuesday their many friends hastened to offer their congratulations. The couple were married in Alsace, France, in 1862, and came to Louisville five years later. For many years they have resided at 1425 Twelfth street, and are held in high esteem by all who know them. Three children were among those to offer congratulations, Mrs. George Hartman, Philip Hildebrand, Jr., and Charles J. Hildebrand, book-keeper for the Central Consumers' Company.

KNIGHTS GO TO BARDSTOWN.

Louisville Council, Knights of Columbus, will exemplify the three degrees at Bardstown on Sunday. A special train will carry the Knights from Louisville to Bardstown, leaving the Union Station, Tenth and Broadway, at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning. The train will return immediately after the banquet and will reach Louisville before midnight. It is expected that the council at Bowling Green and Lebanon will be well represented. This is the second initiation to be held by Bardstown Council.

HOPKINS THEATER.

The motion pictures at Hopkins Theater continue to draw well filled houses from six to eight times a day. Manager Dustin always blends enough of the pathetic or tragic with the ridiculous to make his entertainments attractive. Not the least entertaining features are the illustrated songs at each performance. Another excellent set of films are promised for next week.

SOCIETY.

Miss Jessie Burns is the guest of Mrs. Ragland in Jeffersonton.

Miss May Mulvey spent the past ten days with friends in Lebanon and New Haven.

Mrs. Mary Powers, of Frankfort, is the guest of Miss Ann O'Keefe, 525 Zane street.

Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Schuler, of Highland Park, will spend the winter in Louisville.

Miss Eva Webb, of Jeffersonton, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lynch in Memphis.

Miss Edith Malone has gone to Baltimore, where she will be the guest of Miss Margaret Gans.

Miss Mary O'Donnell, of New Albany, is spending the winter with relatives in San Antonio, Texas.

Miss Maria Coons, of Minneapolis, has been the guest of Miss Marie Murphy, of Portland, this week.

The Four Leaf Enchir Club was entertained by Miss Amelia Spanier, Fourth and N streets, last night.

Mrs. Richard Dehoney and daughter are the guests of her mother, Mrs. Weissenberg, of Coral avenue.

J. K. Shannon and Arthur W. Fryxell were among the Louisville guests at West Baden Springs this week.

Miss Wene L. Curran, of 227 East Ormsby avenue, has gone to Savannah for a two weeks' visit to Miss Georgia Jette.

Mrs. C. A. McGee and children, Christine and Cecil, have returned from Parkview, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will McGee.

Attorney A. J. Bizot is receiving congratulations over the arrival of a son and heir at his home, 2210 West Broadway. The baby arrived Saturday.

The wedding of Miss Lillian E. Senning and Edward C. Franz was quietly solemnized in the presence of a few friends at St. Anthony's church Wednesday morning.

The condition of Mrs. William McDonald, who has been seriously ill at her home, 216 Twelfth street, is unchanged, but her many friends are hoping for her speedy recovery.

Miss Marie O'Brien entertained on Monday with a miscellaneous shower and 500 party in honor of Miss Lillian Senning, whose marriage to Edward Franz took place on Wednesday.

Miss Margaret Nell Meehan and Dr. Charles O. Neff were quietly married at St. Patrick's rectory Wednesday afternoon. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left for a ten days' trip to French Lick Springs.

Miss Louise Burke and Maurice Boland, popular young people of New Albany, were married at Holy Trinity church Wednesday morning. The Rev. Father Charles A. Curran performed the ceremony, and many friends of the young couple were present when the nuptial knot was tied.

There is joy in the household of James Treston, 2235 West Chestnut street, over the arrival of a handsome baby boy. Hitherto the Treston babies have been girls, and the six sisters are as proud of their baby brother as is papa Jim. The little fellow will be christened tomorrow at St. Charles' church.

Miss Eliza A. Tabler and Nelson R. Petry, Secretary-Treasurer of the New Albany Tribune, were married at the rectory of Holy Trinity church, New Albany, last Saturday morning. The Rev. Father Charles Curran officiating. After a trip to Chicago and West Baden Springs Mr. and Mrs. Petry will begin housekeeping at 2029 East Elm street, New Albany.

Miss Mayme A. Hoffman and Albert Schmitt, prominent young people of New Albany, were married at St. Mary's church in that city Tuesday morning, and left immediately for Lafayette, Ind., where the fortunate groom holds a responsible position with a railroad company. He is a grandson of the late Edward Trumbo, former Mayor of New Albany.

Miss Elizabeth McIntyre and Nathan A. Cooper were married in the rectory of the Cathedral of the Assumption on Thanksgiving afternoon. The Rev. Father George W. Schumann officiating. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. A. McIntyre, of 617 Seventh street, and the groom is a well known young attorney and is connected with the firm of O'Neal & O'Neal.

Dave Garvey left Tuesday for Knoxville to join his wife and to be present at the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bundschu, parents of Mrs. Garvey. He remained in Knoxville for Thanksgiving day. Mrs. Garvey will return home next month. A number of other Louisville relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Bundschu went to Knoxville to attend the celebration.

Miss Emma Allgeier and Edward Oesterreter were united in matrimony at St. Francis of Assisi church on the Bardstown road at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. The bride is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Allgeier, and the fortunate groom occupies a responsible position with the Phil Holtenbach Company. After a bridal tour through the East Mr. and Mrs. Oesterreter will be at home to their friends at 1905 Stevens street.

GIVE GERMAN CREDIT.

Says the True Voice, of Omaha: "The German citizens of several Eastern States have organized for the purpose of calling attention to what this country owes to the Teutonic stock. A very good idea. Most of our school histories have been written with a strong Anglo-Saxon bias. Every influence exerted by the Englishmen or their descendants has been magnified, and all other nationalities have been ignored. This is not fair. Were it not for the Celt and Teuton the United States would never have attained its present status as a nation. Give the German credit for his share in upbuilding a great country."

FUNERAL OF JOHN HUGHES.

The funeral of John E. Hughes, who died at his home, on Twenty-sixth street, near St. Xavier, on Sunday night, took place from St. Charles Borromeo church Tuesday morning. The solemn mass of requiem was celebrated by the Rev. Father J. D. Miller, of Springfield, Ill., a brother-in-law of the deceased, with the Rev. Father C. P. Raffo as deacon, and the Rev. Father Denis Murphy as subdeacon. Bernard Hughes, a brother of the deceased, came from Denver, Col., to attend the funeral. Mr. Hughes was born in Louisville thirty-eight years ago. His wife and four children survive him. He was an efficient member of the fire department for several years and later became a commercial traveler. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him.

URGED TO MAKE RACE.

J. J. Kavanagh, one of the Assistant City Attorneys, is being urged by many of his friends who are leaders in the Democratic party to make the race for the nomination for Prosecuting Attorney in the Police Court. Mr. Kavanagh is a talented young man and has won an enviable reputation as a ready speaker. He has a host of friends who believe he can win the nomination and bring strength to the ticket next November. Mr. Kavanagh is seriously considering the proposition.

DIED OUT WEST.

The mortal remains of Mrs. Mary Kertlin, who died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Cheney at Redlands, Cal., arrived in Jeffersonton Thursday and were taken at once to St. Augustine's church, where the Rev. Father John O'Connell celebrated a mass of requiem. The deceased was seventy-seven years old and spent the greater part of her life in Jeffersonton. Two years ago she went to California to reside. She had many friends who mourn her death.

PASTOR IS PLEASED.

The bazar for the benefit of St. Patrick's school attracted large crowds Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons and evenings. The turkey dinner on Thanksgiving day, and the oyster supper Friday evening proved drawing features. Many handsome prizes were awarded and quite a nice sum will be realized when all the returns are in. The Very Rev. Father James P. Cronin is delighted with the aid given by his friends.

YOUNG LIFE CLOSED.

Sad indeed was the death of William Diersen, a promising young man, who, twenty-four years, who succumbed to tuberculosis at his home, 1012 Ash street, Monday night. His mother and three brothers survive him. He was connected with the firm of Diersen Bros., brewers. The funeral took place from St. Boniface's church Wednesday morning. Many friends showed their esteem by attending the requiem mass.

CONSECRATION COMING.

The Very Rev. Owen B. Corrigan, who succeeded the late Bishop Curtis as Vicar General of the Archdiocese of Baltimore, will be consecrated titular Bishop of Macra on January 10. His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons will officiate at the consecration, which will take place in the Baltimore Cathedral. Bishop Corrigan will remain in that city as Auxiliary Bishop to the Cardinal.

MOTION PICTURES.

The fame of the four theaters under the management of the Princess Amusement Company is constantly increasing. Ladies, tired of shopping, or with tired children, find it entertaining, restful and instructive to sit for half or three-quarters of an hour in the Casino, Princess, Bijou and Dreamland theaters. Theaters are run in each of the theaters every day.

PRIZES APPRECIATED.

The military culture and dance given under the auspices of the 7th form Rank, C. K. of A., at Trinity Council's hall last Monday night was a pronounced success. Both the upper and lower halls were filled and the prizes were handsome and useful. The latter part of last week, when the Knights to try the experiment again after the holidays.

HIGH SCHOOL'S BANNER.

The beautiful purple banner borne by the High School boys on the gridiron Thanksgiving day was the gift of Col. and Mrs. Charles P. Dehler, who made the gift in behalf of their son, George Dehler, a High School freshman. It is the largest and handsomest banner ever owned by the school and is greatly appreciated by the faculty and pupils.

SHERIDAN'S ANNIVERSARY.

Wednesday was the twentieth anniversary of the death of the illustrious Gen. Philip Henry Sheridan. The magnificent statue of the dead General has just been erected in Sheridan's Circle, Massachusetts avenue. It was unveiled with great military ceremonies. President Roosevelt and former Ambassador Horace Porter made the principal addresses.

GUESTS OF FATHER HAYES.

After returning from the Catholic Missionary Congress in Chicago the Rev. Father Charles P. Raffo went to Bowling Green for a few days during the latter part of last week. Father Raffo and Father John Gastoldi, of Colesburg, were guests of the Rev. Father Thomas J. Hayes during their stay in the county seat of Warren.

SUFFERS HEART ATTACK.

Miss Josephine Paslick, one of the most charming young ladies of the East End, is suffering from a serious attack of heart trouble at the home of her father, Henry Paslick, the well known real estate man, at 1415 Everitt street. Her many friends hope for her speedy recovery.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

Late News That Will Interest Members Here and Elsewhere.

Price Hill Council, Cincinnati, has been organized with sixty members. The council at Moline, Ill., is planning to give a minstrel show after the holidays.

The Kansas City Council has purchased a home at a cost of $22,500, of which $10,000 was paid in cash.

It is believed that several hundred members of Louisville Council will attend the initiation at Bardstown tomorrow.

Archbishop Elder Council, Cincinnati, will celebrate its anniversary in February with an elaborate literary and musical programme.

Supreme President Edward L. Hearn, of New Haven, Conn., attended the thirteenth anniversary celebration of San Salvador Council, New York, Monday night.

Bishop Keane, of Cheyenne, Wyo., has completed an eight days' mission to the non-Catholics of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. The auditorium in which the Bishop spoke was crowded to its capacity each evening, and at no time did he address less than 3,000 people. The expenses of the mission were paid by the Cedar Rapids Council.

NERVOUSNESS.

There is no doubt that nervousness is becoming more common with school children. Years ago it was an unusual thing to find a child a nervous wreck; now it is very common. Many reasons are advanced. The strenuous life, the cramming at schools, the inability of some children to keep up in their studies with others as well as a dozen other reasons. Harmony in the household is a cause which many do not consider. You never find a nervous wreck, young or old, in a family of even tempered, kind and affectionate persons. It is in families where the loud-mouthed, boisterous members predominate and the less fussy and noisy member suffers from the shouting and yelling of the others. Mothers should for many reasons train their children to speak in a soft, subdued voice. It adds dignity to their manners and does not disturb their own nerves or the nerves of the other members of the family.

POTATO CHOCOLATE CAKE.

Do not be afraid to try this cake because it sounds queer. It is delicious and will keep indefinitely. Two-thirds of a cup of butter, two cups of granulated sugar, one cup of mashed potatoes, hot, one-half cup of sweet milk, two cups of flour, four eggs, two teaspoons baking powder, heaping, one-half cake of unsweetened chocolate, one-half teaspoon each of cloves and cinnamon, one cup of chopped walnut meats. Mix sugar and butter to a cream. Add eggs and milk, then potato mashed smooth and hot. Add chocolate, which has been allowed to dissolve over the teakettle. Flour, baking powder, spice and nuts. Bake in a moderate oven.

MASS ON SUNDAYS.

The obligation of attending mass on Sundays is strict, and the violation of it is a mortal sin. Every Catholic is aware of this obligation. When Sunday comes all other considerations must be laid aside, and the first thing that a Catholic is bound to provide for is the time to go to the church and adore God. He may take physical and mental rest during the remainder of the day, he may enjoy innocent recreation that is calculated to recuperate his strength for the toil of the coming week, but he dare not violate the obligation of hearing mass.

KNEW THE LAW.

An Irishman, wishing to take a "homestead" and not knowing how to go about it, sought information from a friend. "Mike," he said, "you've taken a homestead, an' I thought maybe ye could tell me 'th' law concernin' how to go about it." "Well, Dennis, I don't know 'th' exact wordin' 'at it. 'Th' mainin' 'u' it is this: 'The Government is willin' to bet yer 160 acres 'u' land again $14 that ye can't live on it five years without starvin' to death.'"

FLANAGAN'S FIRST.

What They Have Been Doing
the Past Week—General News Notes.

Superior, Wis., has a new division with eighty charter members.
Division 1 of Hartford, Conn., initiated seven candidates at its last meeting.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of New Britain, Conn., has a well drilled military corps.

Progress and prosperity are distinctive marks of those divisions that support juvenile branches.

A real Irish jaunting car was a feature of the Hibernian division of the Hartford Bridge parade.

After the biennial meeting of the County Board, N. Y., eleven candidates were initiated.

Albany was one of the leading counties in New York in making gains during the past two years.

Boston now has three juvenile divisions and Major P. J. Moynihan is training them in military tactics and maneuvers.

Mrs. J. O'Neill has been re-elected County President at Newport, R. I., over her protest. She had served seven consecutive years.

Auxiliary No. 12 of New Haven, Conn., was organized in 1896 with eleven members. Now it has 685 on its rolls and all in good standing.

Division 1 and the Ladies' Auxiliary of Bangor, Me., held a sale and reception on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights. A dance followed the reception each night.

Division 8 of St. Louis gave its second annual ball on Thanksgiving night.
Miss Marie O'Reilly, a popular member of the Ladies' Auxiliary, was crowned Queen, and Misses Kate Morris and Margaret Johnson were maids of honor.

A large attendance is expected at local divisions this week, because nominations and elections of officers are scheduled as follows: Division 1,
Tuesday night; Ladies' Auxiliary, Wednesday night; Division 3, Thursday night, and Division 2, Friday night.

When the Rev. Father Matthew Cremer celebrated his twenty-fifth sacerdotal anniversary at Manchester, N. H., all the local Hibernians joined in a parade in his honor, and were accompanied by 135 of their brethren from Concord and 100 from Nashua.

Under the new State by-laws each of the divisions will nominate and elect officers on the same night, instead of a month apart as heretofore. No nominating speeches will be permitted and nominations and elections will be by secret ballot. The nominations and elections will be made by the respective Louisville divisions at their first meeting nights in December.

The Boston Hibernian gives the following good advice: Nominations and elections for division officers now claim the attention of the members. If you have a tried and true officer, "don't swap horses crossing a stream." Also select some of the young members and thereby encourage them to attend all of the meetings. Let us forget pay your dues once a month. It is easier for you, and your division will then have a steady income.

MACAULEY'S THEATER.

George M. Cohan will present his musical comedy, "The Yankee

Prince," at Macauley's Theater during the first half of next week. Mr.

Cohan will bring the original New York production and a company of 100.

SAILED FOR ROME.

Archbishop Ireland, of St. Paul,

Minn., and Bishop Scannell, of Omaha, sailed from New York Thursday for Rome, where they will pay their respects to Pope Pius X. on attending his golden jubilee as a priest.

UNITED IRELAND.

I love old Wexford county, fair Louth and Wicklow, too,
My heart's at home in Dublin, where the skies are ever blue;
I dream of Antrim's purling brooks,
of sturdy, proud Mayo,
And memory often brings me back to Cavan and Carlow.

I'm proud of Cork's own country, of Kerry near the sea, While Sligo, Down and Derry, are just as dear to me;
I harbor not one prejudice, I have no
east or west,
I know no spot in Ireland holier than the rest.

Fermanagh, Meath and Donegal, are pictured in my heart, While Monaghan and Leitrim are of my life a part;
The sister counties, Kings and Queens, come to me in dreams,
And I hear the olden harp, the Rosecommon's silvery strains.

I often pray for Limerick's soil, for Tipperary's men—
Who fought the foeman hand to hand in many a mossy glen.
I see Erin reunited, I have no east or west,
There is no spot in Ireland more sacred than the rest.

Westmeath I love and famed Armagh, Galway and Kildare, And while I think of Longford, my heart goes out to Clara;
I fondly speak of Waterford as though it were my own, While my heart is palpitating for Kilkenny and Tyrone.

Then here's an honest Irish toast, let kissmen bear in mind,
There's no gallore for honest men,
throw factions to the wind,
Let north and south go hand in hand,
likewise the east and west,
For there's no spot in Ireland more brave than all the rest.

J. S. O.

DISCOVERER OF GOLD DEAD.

The death is announced of Daniel Shea, who emigrated from Cork to Australia in 1837, discovered in company with another Irishman the Kalgoorlie goldfields, and was awarded the magnificent pension of $100 a year for revealing the "richest square mile in the world." The Australian papers tell us that he knocked about the Australian and New Zealand goldfields for a quarter of a century before he and his mate, Hannan, camped on the site of Kalgoorlie. It was Hannan who actually discovered the golden glories of the place by accidentally kicking a nugget while searching for a stray horse, but as Shea was his partner he shared the honor and award. While working on a goldfield in New Zealand, Shea had a mate named Richard Seldon, who was destined to become the Premier of that colony. During recent years Shea had lived in Perth, the western Australian metropolis, but he never went to bed. Through force of long habit in camping out on goldfields he could get sleep only when lying on

HINTS ON STYLE.

Fur hats are pretty in new shapes and styles.

No end of braid is used on fashionable gowns.

The appreciation of soutache is greater than ever.

Plaited ribbon trimmings appear on the directorate coats.

Coats are long and they were never of more graceful cut.

A great deal of swansdown is used to trim the black hats.

The colored net waistcoat is one of the novelties of the day.

Dyed in every available tint, the ostrich plume still holds sway.

The mourning veil of today though of crepe is not heavy and is not stiff.

Black coats and gray, brown coats and blue are all to have colored collars.

Black and white is likely to be an enduring favorite through another season.

The great breadth of the crown of the new hats makes the brim appear moderate.

Trimnings on velvet have a certain degree of novelty and in all cases are effective.

One of the handsomest coats seen this season was made of broadtail in director style.

Nowadays nearly all women wear jabots, and among the prettiest is the grandfather's frill.

Many blouses are made without collars to accommodate the many becoming neck fixtures.

IRELAND.

Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

A number of evictions are expected in the Ballytrain district, County Louth.
Edwin Harris, LL. B., has been appointed solicitor to the Newry Urban Council.

Extra police have been sent to County Longford, although there is no disorder there.

The late John F. Leary, of Ballykealy, County Carlow, left an estate valued at $260,000.

Edmond Cronin, 100 years old, died at his home in Middleton, County Cork. He took a prominent part in the rising of '67.

In the County Clare Judge Bodkin awarded $200 to Michael Hogan for six head of cattle that had been driven off his lands last September.

The death of Sister Evangelist, a well known Sister of Mercy, has taken place in the community's convent at Dunmore East, County Waterford.

At a meeting of the Tralee Rural Council it was unanimously decided to give preference to Irish slates for roofing the laborers' cottages about to be built.

Michael Winters, a member of one of the old and respected families of Tullin Eglis, County Louth, is dead.
He was a devout Catholic and a staunch Nationalist.

At the last Quarter Sessions held in Coleraine, County Derry, Judge Overend was presented with white gloves, as there were no criminal cases before the court.

The death of Mrs. Francis Lynch, of Gortine, County Leitrim, has caused widespread regret in the district. She was a member of the well known Annaduff family.

Rev. Father P. Finegan, who has been curate in Dundalk for fifteen years, has been transferred to Tober, where he succeeds the late Father Powderly as parish priest.

The sale of the Templeton estate has been declared off because the agent repudiated the terms of the contract, and thus 650 tenants will lose the benefits they expected.

In Galway the Gort District Council has decided to have the work of street maintenance done by direct labor so as to provide employment for laborers during the winter.

James McGough, a respected citizen, is dead at his home, Shantagan, County Louth. He was past seventy years of age and was hale and hearty until three weeks before his death.

His wife and three sons survive.

Miss Mary O'Connell, daughter of Richard O'Connell, Shungarry, County Cork, has entered the Convent of Mercy, County Galway. She will be known in religion as Sister Mary Benignus.

Hugh McCloskey, a postman in the County Monaghan, was found drowned in the Ulster canal at Rectory Bridge, Tyholland, and so far nothing is known of the circumstances of his death. He was fifty years old.

VISITS NATIVE LAND.

The Right Rev. Dr. Higgins, Bishop of Rockhampton, Queensland, who has been enjoying a vacation in his native county, Westmeath, paid a visit to Trim and was much impressed with what he saw in the national convent schools.

FEWER IMMIGRANTS.

Irish immigration to the port of New York has sunk into insignificance compared to what it once was. We are now getting about 35,000 a year from there, while immigrants from Austria-Hungary number about 338,000 annually.

MADE MONSIGNOR.

The Very Rev. Father Mackin, pastor of St. Paul's church, Washington, D. C., was formally created Monsignor on Thanksgiving day. Washington now boasts two Monsignors.
The first was Monsignor Thomas S.
Lee, pastor of St. Matthew's church.

CHEER UP.

Some are always looking for the dark side. Such generally find it.
The pessimist said to the optimist, who had exclaimed, "It's a beautiful day." "Ah, yes, that may be, but it is raining somewhere." One of the cheery kind, a good old woman, who looked for the bright side, said to one who remarked, "Well, grand-

"QUICK MEAL" GAS RANGES.

For many years the "Quick Meal" has been universally acknowledged as the best gas range in the market. They cook quickly, bake excellently and on account of their patent air burners consume less gas than any other. They are more easily cleaned and are made to last. The new improvements this year will keep it in the front rank. Having made our 1907 contract before the advance in prices of all iron goods we are able to sell at old prices.

CITY SHOCKED

When the Death of Mrs.
Tony Landenwich Was Announced.

Universal sorrow was expressed in Louisville when it became known that Mrs. Katherine Landenwich had died at St. Joseph's Infirmary on Saturday evening following an operation for appendicitis. She had been ill only a few days. The operation was performed Thursday and then it was found that she was suffering from a complication of ailments that proved too much for her weakened constitution. The funeral took place from St. Anthony's church, of which she was a devout member, on Tuesday morning, and that edifice was filled with the sorrowing relatives and friends of the deceased.

Mrs. Landenwich was preparing to celebrate the fifty-third anniversary of her birth on January 13. She is survived by her husband, Tony Landenwich, the veteran caterer and the original proprietor of Fontaine Ferry Park, and the following children: Harry Meyer, a son by her first marriage, and George A. Landenwich, Mrs. John Schwind and Mrs. Mollie McCorkle. She was not only a loving helpmeet to her husband, but his business partner as well, and was noted for her devotion to church and charity.

PIANO RECITAL

Was a Revelation to Pupils of Holy Rosary School.

The teachers and pupils of Holy Rosary Academy, on West Ormsby avenue, enjoyed a delightful piano recital given by Patrick O'Sullivan on Thursday afternoon of last week. Louisville is justly proud of her favored son, Mr. O'Sullivan, who is numbered among the great musicians of the twentieth century. His selections moving with simplicity, hastening with dazzling technique, ever artistic, soulful and true, swinging the pendulum of emotion from laughter to tears, from tears to laughter, as joy or sorrow chance to be the inspiring motive of his theme.

Among his own compositions, several of which he played, was one called "A Vision." As he softly plays the first notes you almost forget the face of some loved one comes dimly into view, and as the player continues the vision becomes more vivid, until just as it appears to be quite real it vanishes, leaving you bewildered by the sudden return to reality.

Miss Steinert rendered beautiful selections in German, Latin and English.

On Monday the pupils of the higher classes entertained the teachers and the pupils of the primary grades with a brief musicale in honor of St. Cecilia, the patron of music, who is said to have played and sung so sweetly that she often heard the voices of angels from the heavenly choir mingling with her own. The smaller pupils of Holy Rosary Academy will have their entertainment, "The Coming of Santa Claus," next month.

ENJOYED TREAT.

Division 4 Hears an Able Address on Timely Topic.

President John H. Hennessy presided over a well attended meeting of Division 4, A. O. H., Monday night and reminded all present that the nomination and election of officers would take place at the next meeting, the second Monday in December. He asked for a full attendance. Stephen J. McElliott was made temporary Secretary in place of Frank P. Burke, who was absent. Michael McNally was elected to membership. John P. Langan was reported as having recovered from the effects of a recent accident, and William Reardon and William Hannon were reported on the sick list.

William P. McDonough, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee, reported that everything was in readiness for the euchre and dance on Wednesday night. Michael McDermott made a report of the latest deliberations of the Jefferson Federation of Catholic Societies. Attorney Newton G. Rogers delivered a very interesting address on "Socialism," showing that he had made a comprehensive study of the subject. His remarks were much enjoyed and the members gave him a rousing vote of thanks. The speaker showed the weak points of socialism, and how the Catholic church was its sturdiest opponent, while its advocates were atheists and infidels.

VICTIM OF LUNG TROUBLE.

The funeral of Thomas Gavin, who died at his father's home, 321 Logan street, on Friday, took place from St. John's church Monday morning. The deceased was in his twenty-eighth year, and is survived by his father, John Gavin, and a brother, William Gavin. Death resulted from lung trouble and the young man succumbed after an illness of several weeks. From his boyhood he had been employed as a clerk in the Ninth-street Tobacco Warehouse and was one of the most popular young men on the breaks. His family have the sympathy of many friends in their grief. The Rev. Father Daniel F. Gallagher preached the funeral sermon and praised the virtues of the deceased, and told how well he had prepared himself for eternity.

MISSING FRIENDS.

Mrs. Katie Walsh, of 890 North Humboldt street, near Palmer avenue, Chicago, Ill., under date of November 18, wrote Chief of Police Haager to assist in locating her godfather, James Healy, and her grandmother, Mrs. Ellen Burns. The correspondent writes that her family name was Catherine Ann Kehoe. She was born June 14, 1861, and was baptized in St. John's church a week or two later. The writer declares she was born in a house owned by Richard Story. Her father's name was Michael Kehoe and her mother was Ellen Hartly Kehoe. The parents came from Louisiana to Louisville, but later returned to Louisiana.

REORGANIZATION

Of the Democratic Party Machinery Is Under Way.

The first step in reorganizing the machinery of the Democratic party in the State was taken last Saturday when Committee members were chosen by a majority of the Democratic voters in each precinct. On Monday the Precinct Committees met in their respective legislative districts and elected District Chairmen. Great interest settled in Jefferson County's result. The following District Chairmen were declared elected:

Forty-fourth—J. B. Weaver.
Forty-fifth—John P. Carney.
Forty-sixth—H. H. Goecke.
Forty-seventh—John J. Barry.
Forty-eighth—James P. Edwards.
Forty-ninth—Frank McDonagh.
Fiftieth—Thomas J. McDonough.
Fifty-first—John L. Gruber.

It now becomes the duty of these committees to elect a Chairman of the City and County Committee. They met Wednesday for that purpose. Hon. W. O. Head, the State Central Committeeman for this district, presided. Gen. John B. Castleman and J. S. Minor were placed in nomination. The vote resulted in a tie. The vote stood for:

Castleman—Weaver, Goecke, Barry and Edwards.
Minor—Carney, McGrath, McDonough and Gruber.

Mr. Head, who presided, was asked to cast the deciding vote. Mr. Head decided that the rules required him to make his decision in writing. The meeting was adjourned until Monday, when Mr. Head will hand in a written ruling in the matter. Every true Democrat hopes the matter will be settled as soon as possible, so that an active campaign for the next year can be begun, and with all factional differences wiped away.

TRINITY COUNCIL.

Trinity Council held a brief but well attended meeting Monday night, with President Kelly presiding. Several applications were received and the various committees on entertainment and for the promotion of the bazaar showed great progress was being made. An early adjournment was taken to allow the Uniform Companies of the C. K. of A. the use of both the upper and lower floors for their military euchre and carnival.

AGED PRIEST DEAD.

A letter to friends in New Albany brought news of the death of Father John Mouglin, who was rector of Holy Trinity church thirty years ago. From New Albany he went to Nashville and had charge of a parish in that city several years. When he was about seventy years old he retired from his duties as pastor and returned to France, the land of his nativity, and made his home in a small town near Paris. Father Mouglin was eighty-four years old, and was highly esteemed by all who knew him.

VERY FITTING

Was Observance of Feast of Patron Saint of Music.

The feast of St. Cecilia was appropriately observed in the church which bears her name last Sunday. The pastor, Very Rev. Father A. J. Brady, officiated at the solemn high mass in the morning and the sermon was preached by the Rev. Father Constantine C. P. The music of the mass was rendered by an augmented choir under the direction of Miss Agnes Richter.

In the evening at 7:30 o'clock solemn vespers were sung and were followed by a splendid lecture by Father Constantine. His subject was "Self Control." The eloquent Passionist handled the subject in a masterly manner and pointed out figures in history, men like Alexander the Great, Julius Caesar and Admiral Stossel, who were able to control vast armies and navies, and yet who fell victims to their own passions. Self-control, said the lecturer, could only be obtained through the grace of God and then in connection with personal endeavor. Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament closed the services.

GRAND CROWD

Attended Social Session of Germantown Branch,
C. K. of A.

Branch 32, C. K. of A., held a social session at its hall, Shelby and Oak streets, Thursday night of last week, and many of the other branches, notably Branches 24, 42 and 642, the two military companies and the Central Committee, were well represented. President John Schalda occupied the chair and upon welcoming the visitors expressed his pleasure and surprise at the large attendance. The Rev. Father A. J. Thomas, pastor of St. Vincent de Paul's church, also made a brief address, commending the order in general and expressing the pride he felt in Branch 32.

President Schalda reviewed the work of the branch and said he hoped they would soon equal the largest branch in the order. He then introduced Attorney Newton G. Rogers, who delivered an able and forceful talk on fraternal societies, paying high tribute to the C. K. of A., which he declared second to none in the United States. Others who addressed the meeting were William M. Higgins, Harry A. Veeneman, Henry Francke and Gen. Joseph P. McGinn. The latter spoke in behalf of the two military companies and their plans. Gen. Kane also spoke for the military department and said that the order had gotten down to the true spirit of fraternalism. He pledged the services of the companies to the church and to the pastors.

State Secretary Meahan spoke in behalf of the State officers, and Ben Speaker, an old and reliable entertainer, made a humorous address that kept everybody laughing. Capt. Oscar Meier made a brief talk, and Ben Beckmann made a very businesslike address, in which he urged all to investigate the C. K. of A. and ascertain its good features. Cigars and refreshments were served in abundance during the evening.

MISSION SERVICE

At St. Boniface's Church
Will Continue Three Weeks.

A mission of three weeks' duration began at St. Boniface's church, Green street, near Jackson, at the late mass last Sunday. The first week is for married and single ladies of the congregation. Next week will be for the married and single men. During these two weeks the sermons are to be in the German language. During the last week the sermons and instructions will be in the English language and men and women will both attend. The priests who are giving the mission are the Rev. Fathers Chrysostom Theobald, Isadore and Angelus, all members of the Order of Friars Minor.

At the opening of the mission last Sunday the edifice was crowded to the doors before the officiating clergy and missionaries, preceded by a procession of boys and girls, entered the church from the street and proceeded up the center aisle to the main altar. The music was splendidly rendered. Father Chrysostom Theobald, who is leader of the missionary band, preached the initial sermon along the teachings of Our Savior that "there is but one thing necessary—the salvation of one's soul."

While the mission is in progress there will be a mass at 5 o'clock each morning, followed by a brief instruction, so that all may leave at 5:45 o'clock. There is another mass and instruction at 8:30 o'clock. In the evening there will be the rosary, sermon and benediction at 7:30 o'clock.

CAMPAIGN FOR MEMBERS.

Division 3, A. O. H., held a well attended meeting Thursday night of last week with Judge Patrick T. Sullivan presiding. Several applications for membership were received, and the Chair announced that the nomination and election of officers would be held at the next regular meeting, which will be next Thursday night. It was determined to begin a campaign for new members and D. J. Coleman was appointed Chairman of the committee. Aside from these features the business was strictly of a routine nature. W. P. McDonough, representing Division 4, was present and invited the members to Division 4's euchre and dance.

QUITE A SUCCESS.

The euchre and dance at the University School, given under the auspices of Division 4, Wednesday night was quite successful. Not only did the division turn out well, but the other three divisions and the Ladies' Auxiliary were also well represented. The prizes were numerous and useful. The floor was in excellent shape for dancing and the young folks did not tire until after midnight. Dennis Collins' orchestra rendered the music in its best style. All who attended enjoyed a delightful evening.
